The Official Association Badge

Adopted by the International Committee in accordance with a resolution of the International Convention held in Springfield, Mass., in 1895.

The features of the badge are the external circle symbolizing the fact that the associations form one body; the center, consisting of a Bible open at the Gospel of John XVII: 21 ("That they all may be one"), resting on the familiar monogram of the name Christ, and the triangle with words on the three sides, Spirit, Mind, Body. This symbolizes the unity of man, whom the association aims to develop symmetrically, each part with reference to the whole.

Issued in the form of a clasp pin, scarf pin, or button.

Crawford Bicycles

are Thoroughly Trustworthy

THERE never has been anything cheap or flimsy about Crawford Bicycles. When we led the way last year in fixing the price for best bicycle quality at $50 we did not cheapen the construction, but merely cut away all waste in manufacture, all extravagance in profit. For 1898 we introduce improvements in design and construction that make Crawford's superior to all others, regardless of price.    ❖    ❖    ❖    ❖

STATEMENT REGARDING THE WORK OF THE INTERNATIONAL COMMITTEE.

I.—The regular monthly meetings of the committee and of its ten sub-committees have been characterized by hearty interest and self-sacrificing devotion on the part of its members.

A conference of the committee and its secretaries was held at Belmar, N. J., September 4-8, 1897. As in the previous year, great advantage was derived from the fact that all in attendance were under the same roof. The delightful social intercourse and the informal consultations of twos and threes were almost equal in value to the general gatherings, in which all departments of the international work were thoroughly discussed.

The annual dinner meeting of the committee and its friends in New York, November 18, was another valuable opportunity for the review of the entire work.

Dr. J. P. Munn, of New York, has been elected a member of the committee.

The board of trustees met January 25, 1898. Mr. Bowles Colgate was elected president, and Mr. John S. Bussing was re-elected treasurer. Messrs. James Stokes and Frederick B. Schenck were elected members of the board.

Several meetings of the women's auxiliary have been held.

The chairman of the committee, Dr. L. C. Warner, left the country in October for a rapid tour westward and round the world, and has received hearty welcome from and rendered valuable help to the secretaries of the committee in Japan, China and India. During his absence the vice-chairman, Mr. Alfred E. Marling, has very acceptably and efficiently administered the work thus devolving upon him.

II.—At the thirty-one State and Provincial Conventions representatives of the committee were present in response to urgent invitations from the committees in charge. Their names are given in the tabulated report of these meetings. They were cordially welcomed and many letters of thanks for their aid have come to the committee's office.

III.—The Field Work. Field Secretaries C. K. Ober, W. B. Millar, H. P. Andersen and C. L. Gates have continued their work in their respective fields, the west, the east, the south and the southwest. In January, 1898, C. S. Ward became a field secretary of the committee for work in the northwest, with headquarters in Minneapolis.

In all parts of the field substantial progress has been made, valuable assistance has been given to state and provincial committees; the work in important cities has been strengthened, aided in emergencies, and in some cases effectively reorganized. State committees temporarily without state secretaries have been served by the field secretaries, state conventions arranged for, and state work continued which otherwise would have been abandoned. Several states have also been aided in securing permanent state secretaries. The work among Indian young men has been under the care of the field secretaries and the second summer school for the training of leaders in the Indian associations has been held.

The field secretaries have also co-operated with the student and railroad secretaries in special service, especially in the south and the far west.

Robert Weidensall, the senior secretary of the committee, has continued his efficient labors in the promotion of county organization and work, and in enlisting young men in Bible study and direct personal effort.

IV.—Departmental Work.—1. In the Educational Department George B. Hodge has devoted himself chiefly to developing and strengthening uniform courses for evening class work, the high standard of which is maintained by international examinations. Five new subjects of study have been added and examiners secured. The first widespread examinations, held April 5-10, 1897, were participated in by sixty-one associations, and certificates were won by 566 men. These certificates, which a year ago received cordial official recognition from only ten colleges and universities, are now recognized by fifty-five institutions, including seven state universities, ten state colleges, and leading technical and denominational institutions.

The third international educational exhibit, at the Mobile convention, was altogether the most helpful and valuable of the series.

A Bureau of Travel for facilitating educational and holiday travel has been inaugurated under the direction of L. Newton Smith, whose efforts are meeting with encouraging approval.

2. In the Physical Department information and help have been rendered by Dr. Luther Gulick to many associations regarding the equipment of gymnasiums and athletic grounds, the securing of competent physical directors, and many other points. The Athletic League has strengthened its efforts for the promotion of clean sport. Rules for the registration of athletes and sanction of athletic events have been found very helpful. One hundred Associations are members of the league. The great increase of detail work necessitated the addition of George T. Hepbron to the physical department force, January 1, 1898. George W. Ehler, of Chicago, has rendered valuable volunteer service in that section of the country.

3. Decided progress has been made in the College or Student Department, under the general direction of John R. Mott, who has also continued to act as chairman of the Student Volunteer Movement and general secretary of the World's Student Christian Federation. The secretaries of the department have been active in the visitation of colleges and professional schools, in the conduct of the presidential conferences and of the four student summer schools or conferences. The gathering at Northfield, on the return of Mr. Mott from his world tour as general secretary of the Student Federation, took the form of a world's conference, in which twenty-seven nations and races were represented by six hundred men. Immediately afterward the executive committee of the federation, the members of which had been present at Northfield, met at Williamstown and spent three days in careful deliberation. The following ten student movements belonging to the federation were represented: America, Australasia, Britain, China, Germany, India and Ceylon, Japan, Scandinavia, South Africa, and the movement of scattered associations in other mission lands. The student movements of France, Holland and Switzerland were also officially represented.

G. A. Beaver has worked chiefly in the east, C. C. Michener in the west and on the Pacific coast, and F. S. Brockman (until he left the service of the committee in September) and W. K. Matthews, as his successor, in the south. R. P. Wilder began on September first visitation of theological seminaries jointly for the committee and the Student Volunteer Movement. Since the same date H. B. Sharman has been promoting Bible study in the college associations, chiefly through correspondence. His work has entailed no expense upon the treasury of the committee.

At Cleveland, Ohio, February 23-27, 1898, was held the third convention of the Student Volunteer Movement, under the leadership of Mr. Mott and his associates in that movement and in the college department. The attendance and proceedings were a decided advance upon the preceding large and interesting conventions of 1894 and 1891.

There were 458 institutions represented, 331 of them being colleges and universities, sixty-one theological seminaries, forty-seven medical schools and nineteen missionary training schools.

Over 2,000 students represented these institutions, 1,000 of them being volunteers, while an equal number came to learn more concerning the claims of the work to which their companions were consecrating their lives. Eighty-three secretaries of 71 different church boards, 89 returned missionaries, and 106 professors and teachers in different institutions were present.

4. No part of the work has shown more substantial and gratifying growth during the year than the Railroad Department. The marked feature of this growth has been steady progress toward a plan of organization by railroad systems, in which the co-operation of these systems is secured, not simply at isolated division points, but with reference to further extension throughout each system. The inevitable result has been to increase the burden of supervision devolving on the International Committee, making necessary the employment of two more railroad secretaries. John F. Moore was added to the force in August and assigned specially to work in Canada and the northwest. George D. McDill began work on the Santa Fé system in January, 1898. His headquarters will be at Omaha, and, together with the Santa Fé, he will work on the Union Pacific and other lines centering at Omaha from the west.

C. J. Hicks has continued the general administration of the department. E. L. Hamilton and H. O. Williams have efficiently cared for the work intrusted to them, the former in the central west with headquarters at Chicago, and the latter in New England and the northeast with headquarters at Richmond, Va.

J. M. Burwick has spent most of the year in evangelistic work among railroad men under direction of the committee, although the expense of his work has been borne entirely by the railroad men.

C. L. Gates has devoted some time to the associations on the Union Pacific Railway, and F. H. Burt rendered valuable service in a special investigation of the Santa Fé system, undertaken at the request of its president.

3. The work among German-speaking young men was prosecuted during three months of 1897 by Claus Olandt., Jr., the rest of his time being spent as state secretary of Vermont and New Hampshire, without expense to the International Committee. At the close of the year Mr. Olandt resigned both these positions.

6. W. A. Hunton has labored very effectively among the associations for colored men, which have made decided progress when all their difficulties are taken into consideration. Their annual conference, at Raleigh, N. C., was larger than any former one, and was reported by several experienced association men who participated in it as a remarkable meeting. Methods of work were carefully studied, deep spiritual impressions received, and a considerable impulse given to the work of the colored men's department.

V.—The Mobile International Convention, in April, 1897, was one of the most hearty, united, and spontaneous of all the conventions, notwithstanding many fears in advance on account of its remoteness from the centre. Notable action was taken in the pledging of a special fund to promote Bible study and religious effort through a secretary of the International Committee devoting himself to this specific object; the agitation of the important subject of work among the multitudes of young men in country villages, and plans for its better prosecution; and the imparting of information and inspiration to the associations of the south that will no doubt greatly strengthen them.

VI.—The Central Office. Each advance of the work brings new pressure upon the home office, which is the general base of supplies and bureau of information. More frequent communication has been established each year for several years past with the city associations in their educational and physical departments, and the same is true regarding the varied work of the student and railroad associations. The inquiries about the lessons of association, history, the planning of buildings and a multitude of other matters steadily increase. Twenty new publications have been issued. The sales of books, pamphlets, badges and blanks have greatly increased, requiring much more office space than formerly, and also making a contribution toward current expenses. Aid to associations and state committees in securing employed officers is one of the most important services rendered to the whole brotherhood. Very unobtrusively but very effectively benefit in this line is received by associations in every part of the field.

During the last three years the office hired by the committee in 1888, and enlarged several times since, has been so overcrowded that work has been done there at a great disadvantage. The committee has leased the tenth floor of the Bancroft building, No. 3 West Twenty-ninth street, which, in addition to rooms rented to the New York state committee, affords about one-third more space than the present quarters, with far better light and much more convenient arrangement. The additional expense involved is not at all proportionate to the benefit that will accrue to the work. The secretaries are looking forward eagerly to the use of these new facilities.

The historical library maintains its usual growth.

Cheering reports were received of the value of the observance of the November day and week of prayer. The office and traveling force of the committee united in extended efforts for its promotion.

VII.—The committee is issuing credentials to delegates to the World's Conference to be held in Basle, July 6-10. An unsuccessful effort was made to secure a later date, when a greater number of American delegates might be able to cross the sea. There is promise, however, of a large and representative delegation.

VIII.—The Foreign Work. Excellent progress is reported from the points at which association work is carried on by the foreign secretaries of the committee in Japan, China, India, Ceylon and Brazil.

The notable events in the external history of the work have been the dedication at Tientsin, Calcutta and Rio de Janeiro of buildings well adapted to a broad work among young men and the beginning of a similar building at Madras.

Vigorous effort to make "a whole man fit for a whole life," as the object of our work was aptly defined by the Venerable the Archdeacon of Madras at the last anniversary of that association, has been carried on in all the fields. Many encouraging tokens of spiritual progress are noted. In Japan the association in the Imperial University and the other student associations of Tokyo have pushed forward earnestly the work inaugurated during Mr. Mott's visit. Galen M. Fisher reached Japan in January, 1898, to become traveling college secretary. Somewhat later Robert E. Lewis and Robert R. Gailey arrived in China.

Professor W. W. White has continued his labors among students in Calcutta and elsewhere and expects to return to this country soon, according to the arrangement made at the time of his undertaking this special student work.

At the beginning of the year 1898 L. D. Wishard was granted a leave of absence by the committee to undertake special and temporary service for the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions in connection with a forward movement in its work. During his absence the work of correspondence and administration intrusted to him has been generously undertaken by the chairman of the foreign work committee, Mr. W. D. Murray, assisted by the general secretary, by C. K. Ober, and by other members of the committee's force.

Mr. James Stokes, in the continuance of his tour around the world, has rendered generous and effective service to our work for young men on the continent of Europe, and has given another conspicuous token of his beneficent interest in this work by giving to the association in Rome the use of a commodious building fitted up with every needed appliance and held in trust for the association by our own International Committee, of which Mr. Stokes is both a member and a trustee.
